[JOINT RELEASE] Bristol, PA/San Francisco, CA -- September 15, 2008: Future Sonics continues to support H.E.A.R.® at the upcoming AES Show and Conference in San Francisco by offering FREE ear impressions at the H.E.A.R.® booth with an order for any custom-fit Future Sonics product. This includes our custom-made flagship Ear Monitors® brand, SofterWear™ custom-fit sleeves for our Atrio®, EM3™, FS1™, and Sennheiser IE3 models (manufactured by Future Sonics) and ER custom-fit ear plugs in -9/-15/-25 dB attenuations. Each item will have special AES pricing at the show. H.E.A.R.® will also have Atrio® professional earphones and hearing protection products from Mack's Ear Plugs available at the booth. All orders placed support H.E.A.R.® and their programs.

Future Sonics continues to support hearing education and conservation programs as we have for more than 20 years, and we design and manufacture our own proprietary dynamic transducers to provide our audio signature. Future Sonics' campaign, BIGGER SOUND @ lower volume™, provides the best possible audio quality without the need to "crank it up" to potentially damaging levels. Future Sonics will have staff available at the H.E.A.R.® booth #732 throughout the show.

About H.E.A.R.®: Founded in 1988, H.E.A.R.(R) (Hearing Education and Awareness for Rockers) is a non-profit organization dedicated to the prevention of hearing loss and tinnitus among musicians and music fans through education and grassroots advocacy. With support from the music industry, musicians, audiologists, physicians, hearing health organizations, health manufacturers and individual donors, H.E.A.R. (R) is helping to raise awareness of the real dangers of repeated exposure to excessive noise levels from music.

The H.E.A.R. Partners program is a national network of certified hearing professionals who support H.E.A.R.'s mission. H.E.A.R.® delivers information on hearing loss and tinnitus to people worldwide via HEARNET.COM®, public service campaigns, educational programs and distributes hearing protection to thousands of people at events annually.
